MCTXSheriff Increases DWI Enforcements During Spring Break

During Spring Break, the Montgomery County Sheriff's Office, along with other area law enforcement agencies, will be deploying additional resources to actively look for intoxicated drivers. The Montgomery County Sheriff's Office obtained a Texas Department of Transportation grant, which will assist in deploying additional law enforcement resources to target those who drive intoxicated. The District Attorney's Office is assisting in these efforts, as there are several No Refusal Operations planned during the Spring Break holiday. The District Attorney's Office will be providing nurses, prosecutors, and judges on stand by for the enforcement operation.

The Montgomery County Sheriff's Office wants our citizens and guest to have a safe spring break, so please plan and ahead and think before drinking and driving. Get a designated driver, use a car share service, and be responsible.

DWI HANGOVERS don't go away.

Imagine waking up after a long night of drinking with the worst hangover of your life. Now, imagine that feeling doesn't go away. If you drink and drive, the consequences aren't easy to "sleep off."
